

Frame Feedback in Caring & Understanding Way

Before you sit down to have a feedback conversation with someone, it's important to get your "head" in the right place so you can frame the feedback in a direct, yet caring and understanding way. Your goal is to get your message across, while also preserving:

- Their self-worth
- Their motivation
- Your relationship with them

